5. Paraphrase the following passage :

Modernism is synonymous with the humanist philosophy which began in the 17th Century and ended with the fall of Communism. In its very basic summation it was a movement that was optimistic about discovering universal truth that would explain all of life. Postmodernism is a disputed term that has occupied much recent debate about contemporary culture since the early 1980s. In its simplest sense, it refers generally to the phase of 20th century Western Culture that succeeded the reign of high modernism. As applied to literature and other arts, the term is notoriously ambiguous, implying either that modernism has been superseded or that it has continued into a new phase. 1×5=5
